TERMS OF REFERENCE FOR THE APPOINTMENT OF A CONSULTANT TO REVIEW AGYW RISK ASSESSMENT TOOL AND CORE PACKAGE USING A HUMAN-CENTRED DESIGN APPROACH

1. Introduction

The South African National AIDS Council (SANAC) Trust seeks to appoint a consultant to review the current adolescent girl and young women (AGYW) risk assessment tool and core package, using a human-centred design (HCD) approach.

2. Background

Prevention of HIV infection in adolescent girls and young women (AGYW) aged 15-24 remains an important challenge. While new HIV infections have fallen in South Africa by 18% since 2016, with an estimated 66,000 new HIV infections in 2019, the situation of HIV infections in AGYW still remains bleak. HIV risk among AGYW is explained through a confluence of factors, including their elevated biological susceptibility, coupled with multiple complex vulnerabilities including relationships, social isolation, economic insecurity, lack of access to services, and sexual and gender-based violence.

Unfortunately, data characterizing unmet HIV prevention and sexual and reproductive health (SRH) needs and risk vulnerabilities among AGYW, especially out-of-school AGYW, are lacking given the challenges in reaching and retaining this population in the Global Fund (GF) program in South Africa. Program data suggest that AGYW find relationships as an important aspect in their journey, compared to HIV prevention. The focus on delivering biomedical interventions is not aligned to the AGYW journey, thus the need to create relevant and pragmatic approaches.

Given the lessons learnt from the current risk assessment tool, which includes the length of and invasive nature of questions at first engagement, including the administration thereof requires a revitalised tool and approach.

As SANAC, for the remainder of the current GF grant implementation, focus will be on a holistic approach to rethink the overall experience from the AGYW perspective to assist in enhanced targeting, accurate segmentation, increased retention and matching AGYW to appropriate services for maximum impact.
